

CASE OPEN DAY

Objectives

The Barcelona Supercomputing Center (BSC) and the Department of Computer Applications in Science and Engineering (CASE) are organizing the first CASE Open Day, a networking event where interested students can learn about BSC and the research being done by the CASE team, as well as meet some of the researchers to ask them questions or learn from their experiences. Attendees will also have the opportunity to visit MareNostrum 4, the most powerful supercomputer in Spain.

This event is part of one of the activities of Equity4CASE, an initiative that seeks to promote research by women and underrepresented groups with the CASE Department.
