SORS/WomenInBSC: Making FAIR work: from pre-FAIR assessment to structured plans for FAIR adoption in practice

Abstract

Achieving FAIR data is a shared ambition across many research projects, but putting the FAIR principles into practice often proves challenging. This seminar presents a practical, stepwise approach to making FAIR work in real research settings, moving from initial assessments of current practices to the development of structured, tailored plans for FAIR implementation.

I will highlight how pre-FAIR assessments can serve as a starting point for reflection, helping identify both strengths and gaps. From there, we explore how collaborative planning with researchers, data stewards, and technical teams can lead to actionable and realistic steps for adopting FAIR practices. Drawing on tools, templates, and examples from global initiatives, the seminar offers inspiration and guidance to support meaningful and sustainable progress towards FAIR data.

Short Bio

Mijke Jetten is currently a FAIR Data Lead & Community Manager Data Stewardship at Health-RI. She has a PhD in religious studies (interreligious adult education), coordinated Research Data Management Support at Radboud University and was a Data Steward at the Institute for Management Research at Radboud University. She has been coordinator of Open Science Support at Radboud University Library. Her profile and expertise in the mentioned topics and European frameworks makes her our perfect candidate as an external and independent ethics advisor.
