Inicio > VELOX: An Integrated Approach to Transactional Memory on Multi and Many-core Computers
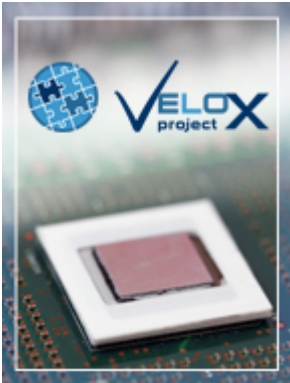

VELOX: An Integrated Approach to Transactional Memory on Multi and Many-core Computers

The EU funded VELOX project aims to develop a software adapted to the multicore technology, which combines two or more processor cores on a single silicon chip, allows computers handle separate tasks at the same time, thereby increasing their performance.

Barcelona Supercomputing Center - Centro Nacional de Supercomputación

Source URL (retrieved on 19 Oct 2024 - 15:25): https://www.bsc.es/es/news/bsc-news/velox-integrated-approach-transactional-memory-multi-and-many-core-computers